GRAND CAREER MENTORING NO. 3

Pathways to Potential: Exploring Paths to Success

Grand Career Mentoring No. 3 gave students an inspiring glimpse into diverse career opportunities. Professionals from leading companies such as Accenture, Sun Life, Solaire, AyalaLand, and Filigree shared their experiences, offering valuable insights into different industries and career paths.

Through engaging discussions, students learned the importance of passion, perseverance, and professionalism in achieving their goals. The mentoring session empowered them to start planning their own journeys with clarity and confidence.

Overall, the event highlighted the limitless possibilities available to students, encouraging them to unlock their potential and take the first steps toward a successful future.

GRAND CAREER MENTORING NO. 3

SISFU Career Fair 2026

WORLD UNIVERSITY FAIR 2026

SISFU's World University Fair 2026 brought together future global leaders and world-class universities in one inspiring space.

Students and parents had the opportunity to connect directly with international university representatives, explore global programmes, and discover pathways for Senior High School, College, and MBA studies.

At SISFU, we continue to open doors to global education and meaningful opportunities for the next generation of Paladins.

DISCIPLINE CORNER

STANDARDS OF ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

A SISFU student shall not cheat.

Whereas CHEATING is defined as the act of obtaining or attempting to obtain credit for academic work through the use of dishonest, deceptive, and fraudulent means, a student, therefore, shall not commit any of the following:

- A. Give, receive, or use unauthorized or prohibited information, resources, or assistance on an examination, assignment, project, or any academic requirement;
- B. Write, take, research, develop, prepare, or answer an examination, assignment or homework, create a project, or make any academic requirement for another student, in whole or in part;
- C. Submitting an examination, assignment, project, or any academic requirement that is written, taken, researched, developed, prepared, or created, whether in whole or in part, by another person or through the use of an artificial intelligence tool;
- D. Prevent or interfere with the use by other students of any library, laboratory, or other academic-related resource;
- E. Damage, destroy, impair, or steal any library, laboratory, or other academic-related resources or another student's completed assignments;
- F. Copy, in whole or in part, from another student during a test, competition, seatwork, project, etc.;
- G. Purposely allow oneself to be an accomplice in cheating by permitting another student to copy from one's academic work during a test;
- H. Alter or interfere with grading done on any form of academic work or as seen on the report card or any grading document/record;
- I. Use or consult, during an examination, any sources (e.g. electronic equipment such as mobile phones, laptops, etc.), other students, or any material not authorized by the teacher/instructor;
- J. Commit other acts of fraud or deceit;
- K. Steal and/or sell copies of tests and/or other instruments of evaluation; or forge signatures on any document that would require the signature of an authority (e.g. school officer, teacher/instructor, or parent, etc.).

VALUE OF THE WEEK

Systematic Organizing: Decluttering/Removing Unnecessary Records and Files

“Organization is about creating a system that works for your life.”
-Chen Luo

In this TEDx talk, Chen Luo, a professional organizer, shares how clutter and disorganization can affect productivity, decision-making, and daily comfort. She explains that many people repeatedly clean or reorganize because they lack a clear system for managing their belongings and records. Instead of constantly tidying up, Luo encourages creating a simple organizing system where every item has a designated place and unnecessary items are removed.

SOCIO-EMOTIONAL LEARNING CORNER

Building Better Habits Through Organization

Why it Matters

When students learn how to organize their materials, files, and responsibilities, they become more focused and productive. Decluttering unnecessary records and files helps reduce distractions and mental stress, allowing students to concentrate better on learning and personal growth.

SEL Skills Developed

1. Self-Management – Managing time, materials, and responsibilities effectively.
2. Self-Awareness – Recognizing habits that cause clutter or disorganization.
3. Responsible Decision-Making – Choosing what to keep, delete, or organize.
4. Goal-Setting Skills – Creating systems that support academic success.
5. Perseverance and Discipline – Maintaining organization as a daily habit.

Practical Tips for Students

1. Declutter regularly – Delete unnecessary files and throw away unused papers.
2. Use organized folders – Label digital and physical folders by subject.
3. Follow the “one place rule” – Always return items or files to their proper location.
4. Do weekly organization checks – Spend a few minutes cleaning your desk or files.
5. Keep only useful materials – Save notes, files, and documents that support learning.

STUDY HABITS

The making-of model: To determine your future, first understand your past

- Reflect on the Past – Think about your previous study habits and experiences.
- Spot Learning Patterns – Notice which methods or subjects you perform best in.
- Learn from Mistakes – Review errors to avoid repeating them.
- Reuse What Works – Continue using study strategies that helped you succeed.
- Set Better Goals – Use past experiences to guide your future academic plans.

AROUND SGEN

An MBA, beyond the title, is about discovering your leadership in the age of complexity.

"An MBA is your next great frontier—it's one of the best journeys you can take to build a strong foundation for your future.

I chose SISFU because of the faculty. They are not only committed to excellence, but they also uphold strong values that truly shape their students.

SISFU taught me the importance of building meaningful relationships. Leadership is not just about skills or knowledge—it's about connection, trust, and collaboration."
